16 PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

17 The Defendant, Mr. Kennedy has been charged with Title 8, 18 USC section 1324(a)(2)(B)(ii), Harboring Illegal Aliens, 8 USC
19 section 1324(a)(1)(A)(iii) and (v), Conspiracy, 18 USC section 371
20 and 18 USC section 2, Aiding and Abetting each of the substantive 21 counts.

22 Mr. Kennedy was arrested February 25, 2008 in a trailer in 23 the Mountain Empire Campground by United States Border Patrol 24 Agents, at about 6:30 in the morning. Sandra Bni was also in the 25 trailer. Lawrence Doss, the second defendant was arrested in a 26 vehicle near the entrance to the campground with four undocumented 27 persons within the vehicle.

28 According to the complaint the material witness did not

2 identify him as someone involved in their smuggling venture.

3 The attorney for the material witness has filed a motion 4 for a video-taped deposition of the three material witnesses, 5 citing, in part, that they are incarcerated and that they are the 6 sole supporters of their families which causes them extreme 7 hardship.

8 II.

9 MR. KENNEDY RESPECTFULLY OPPOSES THE MATERIAL WITNESS' MOTION FOR VIDEO-TAPED DEPOSITION

10 In this case the Material Witnesses have moved under 18
11 USC section 3144 for a video-taped deposition. Mr. Kennedy opposes 12 this motion as the material witnesses and they have no proven they 13 are suffering extreme hardship and because the Material Witness 14 statute is unconstitutional.

15 III.

16 MR. KENNEDY RESPECTFULLY ASKS THE COURT TO DENY THE REQUEST FOR A VIDEO-TAPED DEPOSITION

17
18 18 USC section 3144 states in pertinent part:

19No material witness may be 20 detained because of inability to comply with any 21 condition of release if the testimony of such witness can 22 adequately be secured by deposition, and if further detention is not necessary to prevent a failure of justice.....

23 A. The Statute is Unconstitutional

24 18 USC section 3144 violates the Fifth Amendment's right
25 to Due Process for criminal defendants for the following reasons.
26 The Fifth Amendment guarantees that a defendant not be deprived of 27 his life, liberty or property without due process of the law. The 28 Sixth Amendment allows the defendant to be confronted with the witnesses against him, and to have compulsory process for obtaining

2 witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for 3 his defense.

4 i. 18 Usc section 3144 violates Mr. Kennedy's Fifth
5 Amendment rights

6 Section 3144 allows a witness to be deposed in a criminal 7 case, outside the presence of a judge or a jury, within the jury 8 trial, to confront witnesses, and to due process and fundamental 9 fairness. The fact-finding procedure is tainted by the fact that 10 the witness is not sworn by a judge, and the witness is not viewed 11 in person by the jury; in other words, there is no unbiased person 12 or entity confines of the United States Attorney's office. This 13 process violates the Constitution's guarantees of the right to a 14 presiding over these proceedings and the fact finders are prevented 15 from doing their job, which includes determining the credibility of 16 the witnesses which includes demeanor evidence as well as the right 17 to see the witness confronted by the defendant at trial, the 18 constitution says nothing of the right to a deposition.

19 Furthermore, the government handles all of the procedural 20 matters and the deposition takes place in the government's offices, 21 which is an inappropriate forum for a trial to occur.

22 In addition, the witnesses were incarcerated and detained 23 by the government, the opposing party. Since they were in the 24 government's custody, which is a party to the case, the very party 25 that arrested them, and the very party that would admonish them to 26 come to trial, such a procedure allows for bias on the part of the 27 witnesses to testify in favor of the organization that was holding 28 them in custody and which at least appears to be the holder of the keys to their liberty.

2 The witnesses should be sworn and heard before an unbiased 3 fact-finder and judge, not by a party to the case, such as the 4 government, in their offices. Furthermore, the proceedings, if it 5 is to take place, should occur in a courtroom, not in the 6 prosecutor's offices.

7 ii. 18 USC section 3144 violates Mr. Dotinga's Sixth
8 Amendment rights and Fifth Amendment rights

9 The Sixth Amendment guarantees that the jury is permitted 10 to observe the demeanor of the witness, in order to assess the 11 witness' credibility. Maryland v. Craig, 497 U.S. 836, 851 (1989); 12 United States v. Sines, 761 F.2d 1434 (9th Cir. 1985). The effect 13 of a video-taped deposition results only in the witness' face being 14 shown to the jury, not to whom or where the witness is looking while 15 she is testifying. This is particularly important in this case 16 where identity of the defendants is at issue: imagine an 17 identification issue at trial where the chief witnesses are being 18 asked to identify the culprits and the jury is not allowed to see 19 anything happening in the courtroom except for a close-up on a video 20 monitor of the witness' face.

21 Also, the process, because it is not undertaken in a 22 courtroom, before a judge or jury, assures the witness will more 23 than likely respond in favor of the party that spoke with her first, 24 incarcerated her, and whose authority is paramount as it is the 25 government who is confining her, transporting her, swearing her and 26 appearing as if it is the party that determines if she will be 27 remain on bond or deported. These factors alone, or in combination, 28 can effect the witness' demeanor and/or testimony, so that it would

2 differ from the demeanor she would exhibit in a courtroom where the 3 judge acts as a neutral referee who determines the law, and where 4 there is a neutral fact-finder, the jury, who is not a party to the 5 case.

6 It should not be forgotten that the Sixth Amendment
7 specifically applies to "criminal prosecutions." It guarantees
8 "confrontation" and a "public trial." These are not guarantees that 9 extend by order of the Constitution to civil cases where depositions 10 are commonplace. Therefore, these guarantees, which carry far more 11 weight, should be upheld and the material witnesses should be 12 ordered to testify at trial, as it is the accused whose liberty is 13 at stake.

14 iii. The Statute is unconstitutional because it is 15 vague and because it unlawfully permits the 16 government to place a witness beyond the reach of a 17 subpoena

18 As it appears from the electronic filings in this matter
19 that the following issue may be moot, as it appears the material 20 witnesses have secured their release by posting a bond, the argument 21 is made to preserve the record:

22 18 USC section 3144 allows the release of a material
23 witness "if further detention is not necessary to prevent a failure 24 of justice."

25 For one, it is completely unclear from the statute itself 26 what constitutes a "failure of justice." The Ninth Circuit has held 27 that continued detention of material witnesses who are the sole 28 supporters of their families constitutes a "failure of justice."
Torres-Ruiz v. District Court, 120 F.3d 933, 935 (9th Cir. 1997).

2 Because of the vague standard set forth within the statute, the 3 Constitutionality of the statute fails.

4 Furthermore, if there is any potential "failure of justice"
5 that results from the deposition process, it is a failure of justice 6 enacted upon the criminal defendant, for all the reasons listed 7 above, including the right of the defendant to have the jury assess 8 the witness, his or her demeanor, and his or her credibility before 9 a neutral judge and jury, not in the confines of the United States
10 Attorney's office. Such a criminal proceeding was not anticipated 11 by the writers of the Constitution that a witness would be 12 confronted by the accused in the prosecutor's office, in the 13 prosecutor's custody. See also: Manimbao v. Ashcroft, 329 F.3d 655 14 (9th Cir. 2002). In the context of deportation proceedings, the 15 Ninth Circuit has held that credibility findings are best left to 16 Immigration Judges, not appellate bodies, because of judge's ability 17 to observe demeanor evidence, and to distill interpreting 18 inconsistencies and the dynamics of an interview, and to determine 19 matters of misinterpretation, confusion or true inconsistencies.
20 Likewise, a jury, which holds the Constitutional right to do so, 21 should be permitted to make these judgment calls which are not so 22 easily made from a video of a witness who is being taped in the 23 confines of the prosecuting party.

24 Secondly, a "failure of justice" is not necessarily 25 committed by the continued confinement of a witness who could be 26 released upon a lower bond or on her own recognizance. The bond now 27 for material witnesses in the context of 8 USC section 1324 28 proceedings is $5000.00. This is potentially prohibitive to many

2 material witnesses. Indeed, many material witness attorneys
3 consistently argue that their clients cannot meet such a bond.

4 The "failure of justice" can be easily remedied if the 5 bonds were lowered or if a person was to be released on her own 6 recognizance. A Global Positioning Device could also be utilized.
7 The risk of flight is very minimal, considering that this particular 8 material witness has affirmatively attempted to enter the country 9 at least four times since April, 2006, and she clearly wishes to be 10 here in the United States. In addition, she advised arresting 11 offices she has friends with whom she plans to live in Los Angeles.
12 By setting such a high bond, the system is designed for a material 13 witness to declare that he or she cannot meet the bond and the 14 defendant must suffer the consequences.

15 In this particular case, the material witness declares she 16 will suffer a failure of justice because she is incarcerated. The 17 Material Witness' testimony and presence, however, is crucial at 18 trial because no one in this case has made a confession, and the 19 Material Witness does not identify any of the defendants as a 20 smuggler, or the person she was going to pay. She is the defense's 21 most important witness. This is exonerating evidence, which is 22 "material and favorable" for all three of the defendants. To lose 23 this witness's testimony to a video, where demeanor evidence is non-24 existent and where the deposition is further tainted by the forum 25 in which it takes place, causes a travesty of justice for these 26 three defendants who are looking at years in prison, in contrast to 27 the minimal hardship of allowing this woman to be released on her 28 own recognizance.

2 Finally, upon release of a material witness, after a 3 deposition, the government, by deporting the witness, places the 4 witness beyond the subpoena power of the defendant, in total
5 violation of the Defendant's Sixth Amendment rights. The government 6 is allowed to bootstrap the "unavailability" of the witness, which 7 of course, is unconstitutional. U.S. Const. Sixth Amend.; Crawford
8 v. Washington, 541 U.S. 36 (2004).

10 IV.

11 CONCLUSION

13 For all of the above-mentioned reasons, this Court should 14 rule that 18 USC section 3144 is unconstitutional on its face and 15 as applied and the material witness should be released.
